Note to Handicappers and Others

Carlyle Lake is a manmade, inland lake situated in flat terrain. Winds tend to be light (mean afternoon wind speed during the sailing season is 9 MPH with a standard deviation of 7 MPH) and shifty. Beating legs on a racecourse are rarely longer than ¼ mile. It has been observed that these conditions favor boats that accelerate easily somewhat more than might be expected. You will note that the more powered-up boats are rated here somewhat faster than average, and the under-canvassed boats are rated somewhat slower.
